

Endangered Species Day!

On Saturday, May 4th the Bangor, Maine Public Library will host a special Endangered Species Day event in the Children's Room and outdoor patio from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Staff from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, National Marine Fisheries Service, and Endangered Species Coalition will provide a variety of family-oriented games, art projects, and activities to highlight the recovery of endangered species in Maine. Children can make Atlantic salmon wind sock and a sea turtle or Canada lynx mask. We anticipate a visit from the "Sturgeon General." A special endangered species display will be in the Children's Area throughout the month of May. The event is free and families and children are encouraged to attend.
